

Career Development and Employment Services project

Navigating career pathways

Career development practitioners help Australians navigate complex education and employment transitions every day. Frontline employment consultants provide intensive support to individuals facing multiple barriers to employment.

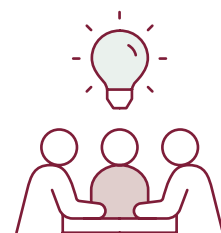

These services are critical for individuals facing structural barriers to employment, such as people with disability and culturally and linguistically diverse communities.

This project will review and update qualifications to make sure they reflect evolving career development roles in employment services.

Benefits of being involved

Your input is important and will:

- help align qualifications with current legislation and reporting requirements
- ensure graduates and the current workforce are equipped to perform their roles
- provide insight into workforce training needs and opportunities for improvement.

How to get involved

Please visit humanability.com.au to learn more about the project and register for updates and consultation opportunities.

Webpage: Career Development and Employment Services project

During the consultation period, you'll be invited to participate in activities such as workshops, meetings and feedback submissions.