

Career Pathways Project Get Involved!

The Career Pathways Project aims to help people working in the aged, disability and veterans' care sectors find clear and rewarding career paths.

The project will identify career options and pathways, understand training needs and support workers with the skills they need for career progression.

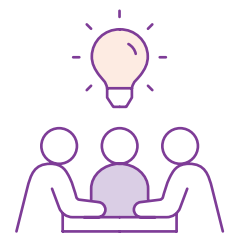

The aged and disability sectors are among Australia's fastest growing sectors. The project aims to attract more people to these sectors and support worker retention.

The project will deliver a Careers Pathway Framework and a Best Practice Guide to help learners, job seekers and employers in making choices that will enhance the sectors, strengthen workforce and improve service delivery.

Benefits of being involved

Your involvement in the project is important and will:

- provide insight into roles and career pathways across the care and support sector
- identify training and development needs to support the workforce
- identify new approaches to workforce development, including career progression opportunities within and across aged care, disability services and veterans' care.

How to get involved
